Dear Mr. President:

On behalf of the 46 undersigned organizations representing over 842,000 Registered Nurses (RNs), Advanced Practice Registered Nurses (APRNs), nurse executives, nursing faculty, and students, we would like to offer our sincere appreciation for the significant investment you have made to strengthening the nursing workforce. By proposing a substantial increase to the Nursing Workforce Development Programs (Title VIII of the Public Health Service Act) in your fiscal year (FY) 2010 budget and signing the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, which allocated much needed funds to these programs, your administration has taken a powerful position on the central role nurses play in our healthcare system.

We would also like to commend your commitment to ensuring that a robust nursing workforce is available to increase access to high quality care under a newly reformed healthcare system. As you know, without an adequate number of healthcare providers, patients will be unable to access essential, cost-effective care. Considering healthcare reform will include expansions to primary, transitional, and preventive care, investments must be made in the healthcare workforce. RNs and APRNs are educated to provide these vital healthcare services, but many more will be needed to meet the demands of a newly reformed system. Additionally, to ensure growth in the nursing workforce is possible, more federal funding must be dedicated to educating future nurse faculty.

These objectives cannot be met without a sustained investment in nursing through the Title VIII Nursing Workforce Development programs. Therefore, we ask that you continue to make nursing a priority in your FY 2011 budget by increasing funding for these programs. The Title VIII programs are the largest source of dedicated federal dollars for nursing education, recruitment, retention, and practice. For 45 years, these programs have supported hundreds of thousands of individuals to become RNs, APRNs, and nurse faculty, or strengthen their nursing skills. Yet, stagnant funding prior to your administration, combined with rising educational costs and inflation, has significantly decreased the programs’ purchasing power.

The continuing shortage of RNs and APRNs and the pending demand for their care poses real challenges to our healthcare system and all healthcare reform plans. This is further complicated by lack of nurse faculty. Fortunately, the Title VIII programs are structured to address the needs of the nursing workforce. We respectfully request your continued investment in nurses, the care they provide, and the vital asset they are to the healthcare team. While other industries report job losses, positions in the healthcare sector continue to grow. RNs and APRNs will be recruited to fill many of these new healthcare positions, especially when the reformed system demands more nursing services. As a profession, nurses are committed to the patient first and are the one provider who will spend the most time with patients and their families. Nurses need your continued support. Thank you for your consideration of our request.
Sincerely,

AANAC
